THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXI.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA, FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 12, 1889.

BOWED HIM OUT. THE COLD RECEPTION AN ALABAMA

REPUBLICAN MET AT THE WHILE HOUSE YESTERDAY

President Harrison Tells Him in a Few Words That the Offices in Alabama Will Not Be Placed at His Disposal.

Washington, April 11.- Special.]-Mr. Harrison today gave a southern republican (who is a republican for patronage only) a very sudden and sound slap in the face. The punished one was R. A. Mosler, of Alabama, who at the head of a delegation of his own kidney has been beseeching Mr. Harrison to speedily turn out all federal officers in Alabama and put such good republicans as they are on Mosley went to the whitehouse today with his crowd to try to give Mr. Harrison another prod and make him move less sluggishly in putting the rascals in.

When he had had his say Mr. Harrison looked at him, and in that icy-cold manner, which is his most marked characteristic, said: Mr. Mosely, you have been here very frequent-Iv and I know all about you. You need not put yourself to any inconvenience to call again upon the business which brought you here today. I would be in a very sorry condition, indeed, if I had to resort to you as the medium through which to dispense official positions in Alabama. Good merning."

After looking around sheepishly, like a boy who had received an unexpected box on the ears, and smiling a sickly smile, Mosely re-tired with his crowd following very close upon

THE PRESIDENT'S SOUTHERN POLICY. The Star this evening prints the following:
The president's policy with relation to southern appointments has been made clear to southern office-seekers here, and there is not likely unavailomec-seekers nere, and there is not neely unavailing discontent. He has declared his intention to select none but men who have the respect of their neighbors, and who are intelligent and capable. He wants to recognize young men and progressive men, who can do the party good, and will not act merely as beches for the rarty because of what they can get leeches for the party because of what they can get out of it. Any distinguished and capable man, who is republican in principle, whether so by avoval or not, may be selected for appointment. The idea is to get rid of self-constituted leaders. who bring the party into disrepute, and to let down all barriers that keep white protectionists out.

BEFORE THE COURT-MARTIAL.

Cuptain Armes On Trial For Pulling Gov" ernor Beaver's Nose. WASHINGTON, April 11.-The court-martial appointed to try Captain Armes for conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman, met at the war department this morning and mem-bers of the court qualified. In response to the question as to whether he had any objection to the composition of the court Captain Armes replied in the negative, but suggested that in this case the cart had been placed before the horse, and that not had the formation of these captains of the captains o had been placed before the horse, and that not he, but Captain Boutke and Colonel Gibson. who had made the charges against him, should be standing upon trial. He referred to Colonel Barr, as an officer who had been secretary of war for Secretary Lincoln. The defendant announced that he had selected Captain Knox, First cavalry, as his counsel. Inaamuch as Captain Knox was a member of the courtmartial, it was necessary that he should first be relieved. The judge advocate, therefore, secured the consent of the secretary of war to the arrangement, and Captain Knox was relieved by special order. He stated that he was not prepared inunediately to proceed in the case and the ed immediately to proceed in the case and the cations of the charges against Armes are pulling the nose of Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, and bringing false and frivolous charges in police courts against Bourke and Gibson,

He Wishes to Be Reinstated in the Army and Placed Upon the Retired List.

Washington, April 11.—Colonel Julian
Allen, of North Carolina, has made applicaion for relief to the president in behalf of. Captain Wm. A. Winder, late of the United States army. From papers presented it appears that the applicant served eighteen years n the army, beginning with the war with Mexico. During the civil war he was desirous of going to the front, but he fell under the suspicion of disloyalty because his father, Gen-Winder, was an officer in the confederate army. Although President Lincoln was satis-fied upon the assurance of Captain (then lieu-tenant) Winder as to his loyalty, Secretary Stanton insisted upon his being sent to Cali-fornia

This was done, and in California the charge This was done, and in California the charge of disloyalty was renewed, finally resulting in a trial by which he was honorably acquitted. Whileon this duty he received the formal thanks of the Maryland legislature for gallant services in connection with the rescue of shipwrecked crows. After the war Captain Winder resigned, and now, as his papers recite, broken down in health and fortune, he seeks to be rejusted in the away and placed uses the reinstated in the army and placed upon the re

Washington, April 11.—Jerome B. Burke, chief of the Gazette division in the patent office, has been notified by the commissioner of patents that if tendered his resignation would be accepted. A Heavy Failure.

NEW YORK, April 11 .- Robert Kell, doing business as Kell & Co., importers of woolens and plushes, at 480 Broome street and Bradford, Eng-land, has failed. A cablegram from England received today announced that the Bradford house had suspended, and on this information Blumen-stein & Hirsch obtained an attachment against property in this city on behalf of Lazard Freres for $27.022. The sheriff thereupon took possession of the Broome street store. With this exception, all habilities are said to be due abroad.

READY FOR THE RUSH. People On the Borders of Oklahoma Waiting for the Day. ARKANSAS CITY, Kans., April 11.—The population of this city has increased one-third during the past week. Two thousand eager mers are here and at least 1,000 are along the line south of here. Six hardware stores have sold out their entire stock and the demand is not half supplied. The boomers are forming into small colonies of twenty-five to fifty persons and are devising schemes to outwi heir neighbors and get into the heart of Oklahoma by the appointed time. There is a feeling all along the border that there will be a ing all along the border that there will be a general forward movement into the territory of night of April 20. Boomers who have been here all the winter have picked out their land and are suspicious of new comers.

They don't propose to have the land they fought for jumped by recent arrivals.

THEY HAVE PICKETS IN HIDING

in Oklahoma woods, who are keeping them posted. Word was received today that the boomers on the Texas border were becoming very impatient, and were liable to march in before the 22d and seize their claims before day-light on that date. A panicky feeling prevails light on that date. A panicky feeling prevails all around. The old boomers claim they developed the agitation that led to the opening of the territory, and that now land sharks are trying to get possession of their property. The state line for hundreds of miles is dotted with "prairie schooners." All are preparing for the flight into the promised land. Many settlers whose geography is faulty are already ten to fitteen miles in the territory, and still claim they are in Kansas.

Government Officials Barred.

Government Officials Barred. WASHINGTON, April 11 .- It appears that the president's proclamation opening a portion of Oklahoma lands to settlement, was more sweeping in its terms than was intended in the natter of excluding persons from entry upon the lands before the date named in the proclamation. Under its terms army officers have been compelled to keep out officials of the in-terior department, whose duty it is to provide for the establishment of new land offices. To relieve these officials, an order was made to-day by the war department for their admission into the territory.

ing if permission is to be given these intended settlers to cross the Cherokee outlet to the northern line of Oklahoma before the 22d of April, the secretary of the interior has replied, in part, as follows:

I think they may be allowed to cross without extraordinary delay, and I, therefore recommend that you instruct your commanding officers to place no obstructions in the way of persons who desire to journey in good fatth, in a quiet, peaceful and orderly manner, upon and along the public highway, post or military roads, or established and customary entire trails, through the Cherokee outlet, in going toward the tract of hand to be opened for settlement. But there should be a military patrol upon the road, or roads that are to be taken, that shall prevent settlers from staying longer than necessary on the way and require them to move on, making only ordinary camps that may be necessary for their crossing. There should be every care taken to have the Indians understand that by this passage there is no disposition to appropriate their lands, and that it will be continued no longer than absolutely necessary.

After, the Brist migration to the Oklahoma country is over, the military force should then scout the Cherokee outlet and require all persons unlawfully there to move on, either back to Kansas or over into the Oklahoma lands.

the secretary, in another part of the letter, says that he doesn't that the deems that settlers are entitled to says that he deems that settlers are entitled to as much consideration as has been given to cattlemen and others heretofore who have been permitted to travel on trails and high-ways through this outlet. It is urged upon he secretary, among other reasons for grant-ng this permit, that settlers coming through Chickasaw and other Indian lands are

The recommendations of Secretary Noble were laid before the president by Secretary Proctor, and, after consideration, an order bearing upon the subject was sent from the war department this afternoon to the army officers in charge on the border of the Indian territory, presumably to carry into practical effect Secretary Noble's recommendations. WINCHESTER MUZZLES

Check United States Marshals from Ejecting

Dubuque, Ia., April 11 .- When United States Marshal Desmond went out to Fort Dodge a few days ago to enforce the progress of eviction against the Des Moines river lands settlers, his posse was met by a force of settlers armed with Winchester rides. Being power-less before them, he returned to Dubuque for reinforcements and laid the case before Judge Shiras, of the United States district court, an-nouncing that he proposed to move upon the settlers with an armed force, and bring all the course proposed by Marshal Desmond is eminently proper and that resistance to federal authority IS A SPECIES OF REBELLION.

which calls for prompt suppression, but in yiew of the fact that the secretary of the interior has officially requested the attorney-general of the United States to examine into the past history and present the condition of the disputed titles to the river lands, for the purpose of determining whether it may not be expedient to bring proceedings in the name of the United tates he deemed it advisable to await the re States he deemed it advisable to await the re-port of the attorney general, and commands Marshal Desmond to suspend the execution of processes until further orders from court. This puts an end, for the present at least, to all proceedings against the settlers.

"BLOCKS OF FIVE." Dudley's Suit Against the New York Evening Post. New York, April 11.—Counseller Godkin, on behalf of the Evening Post, appeared before Judge Beach in the supreme court chambers today, and moved for the dismissal of Colonel W. W. Dudley's suit against the Post to recover damages for the publication of an alleged libel consisting of the "Blocks of ' letter.

Five' letter.

The counsel stated that Dudley, on his exunination before the commission in Washington, refused to testify as to matters concerning his complaint. Colonel Bliss argued that Dudley had acted properly in declining to testify. He said that Godkin had presented to budley the very letter upon which the Indiana grand jury was asked to indict him, and requested him to say whether or not it was his signature, and Dadley declined to answer in order to protect himself in any proceedings brought. The decision was reserved.

The Davis Estate to Be Sold. It is purely a business operation, but all the friends of that gentleman are invited to take stock in the en-terprise, and quite an amount of the stock has already been taken.

CANADY'S PLAN

FOR RAISING MONEY WHENEVER HE RAN SHORT.

THE CAROLINA CREOSOTE COMPANY. The Sergeant-At-Arms of the Senate Becomes the Center of a Great Political Scaudal-Other News.

WASHINGTON, April 11 .- [Special.] -- Information received here is to the effect that a scandal, which will probably result in the reorgan-Ization of the present corps of officers of the United States senate, has developed by the filing of a suit in the United States circuit court for the eastern district of North Carolina, at Raleigh. The complainants are such dis-tinguished personages as ex-Senators William Mahone and Warner Miller, Senator John B. Jones of Nevada and ex-Representative George West, of New York. The respondent is the Carolina Oil and Creosote company, of which W. P. Canaday, sergeant-at-arms of the senate, was recently president. The bill of complainant charges FRAUDULENT AND CORRUPT PRACTICES on the part of certain officers of the company, especially Canaday. The Carolina Oil and Creosote company was organized for the purpose of manufacturing wood creosote oil, and the complainants subscribed to the capital stock organization. This capital stock amounted to $500,000, divided into shares at a par value of $100 each. With the paid up stock expensive works were constructed at Wilmington, N. C., and the business of the company

APPEARED TO BE PROSPEROUS,

one semi-annual dividend of three per cent having been paid. Canaday is charged with various fraudulent transactions, such as calling a meeting and taking action through conspirators, selling stock at one price and making returns as if a smaller had been realized, and then pocketing the difference. It is claimed that by hypothe cation he got a loan of $10,000 from John C. Calhoun, of New York, and put it in his pocket. The most serious charge is that he has, in the name of Scnator John P. Jones, of Nevada, stock to the amount of 6,000 shares, upon which he

INDORSED THE NAME OF SENATOR JONES without the knowledge or consent of that gen-tleman. This, if proved, would constitute forgery, although the present suit is a civil and not a criminal one. Canaday is also charged with having organized another crossote company to operate at Fernan-dina, Fla., and having arranged for the use of the patents of the Carolina company, which was an improper diversion of the rights of the latter company. Not only the rights of the latter company. Not only the members of the company have suffered in these transactions, but outside parties have been victimized. According to the statement of the counsel for the complainants, Senator Don Cameron, of Pennsylvania, invested $12,000 in the fraudulent stock.

THE SECOND HAS A POLITICAL EFFECT. Canaday has for a long time been the active o-operator with Sherman and Mahone n the effort to advance the fortunes of these politicians in the south. It is not known that Mr. Sherman was nipped in this transaction.
In matters of business the Ohio senator keeps out of the rotten enterprises. Nevertheless a family quarrel has been started, which will in the end, will probably disclose the methods by which Sherman and Mahone have worked the southern politicians.

RUSSELL HARRISON ARRESTED On a Warrant Sworn Out by ex-Governor

Crosby. NEW YORK, April 11.-Russell Harrison was arrested this afternoon on the charge of having published in his paper, the Montana Live Stock Exchange, an article taken from a Buffalo paper, accusing ex-Governor John Schuyler Crosby, of Montana, with having stolen jewels from a Washington lady. Mr. Harrison came on from Washington last night served on lim. The warrant was issued by Judge Beach, of the supreme court, who fixed bail at $5,000. Stephen B. Elkins, Vice-President Rice, of Park bank, and W. J. Arkell, of Judge, became Mr. Harrison's bondsmen.

THE STRIKING CARPENTERS. Their Parade in St. Louis-The Trouble in St. Louis, April 11.—The carpenters strike is still on, with no evidences of weakening on either side. Both the Masters' Builders association and Carpenters Brotherhood hold regular meetings, the latter daily, but cannot come together on the one point of recognition of the brotherhood. On hours and renumeration both agree. This morning the strikers, to the number of about 1,500, paraded the streets, attracting a large, but undemonstrative crowd. Buffalo. tracting a large, but undemonstrative crowd.

The men in the line were very orderly. There were no evidences of liquor to stimulate enthusiasm, and not a shout or the least semblance of disorder was recorded during the parade.

A general meeting of the master builders of the city will be held Saturday night for the of discussing the situation, and if sible hitting upon some plan to bring about ettlement of the strike. President Cook, of the Master Builders' association, says, how-ever, that he does not believe the master builders will recede from their position, and the prospects for a settlement of the differences are very slim.

Street Car Employes Strike. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 11.—Last night President Lowery, of the Minneapolis and St. Paul Street Car company, issued an order re-ducing the wages of all employes. The order goes into effect Monday on all horse, cable and otor lines, and is confidently expected to motor lines, and is confidently expected to precipitate a general strike. The company claimt it is losing money, and that it must retrench in order to float bonds with which to build new cable lines. The men are sullen and uncommunicative, but no serious trouble is feared. The company is prepared for any outbreak. The company is prepared for any outbreak. nductors and engineers on the motor line ent on strike at noon today, and at 1:45 all conductors and drivers on Fourth avenue and Tyndale avenue street car lines struck. A Big Row Over Charges Against the Cotton

Men.
CHARLESTON, S. C., April 11.-[Special.]-Things are at sixes and sevens on the cotton exchange. The charges made at the last session of the legislature of a combination between stevedores and ship owners and wharf owners to set fire to cotton ships loading here, so as to get additional fees for salvage, wharfage and commission seems to have led to the row. The exchange undertook to investigate the charges, and a great deal of testimony was taken but not published. The report of the commissioners was to the effect that there was no truth in the charges, and the exchange indersed the report but declined to publish the evidence.

In the discussion that took place Mr. E. L. Wells, who made the charges, accused Mr. W. K. Steadman, another member with being in the ribe. Steadman lodged complaint with the directors against Wells, and demanded an investigation. While, directors against Wells, and demanded an investigation. While this investigation was in progress Wells put in a demurrer claiming that the exchange was working illegally, that its charter called for twelve directors, whereas only six had been elected. There was an all day fight, during which much documentary evidence was read. Finally it was agreed that the point was well taken, and further proceedings were suspended until an amendment to the charter could be obtained. In the meantime it was decided that the evidence taken in the original charge be "filed" with a view to its publication. The cotton men are very much worked up about the matter, and the matter is regarded as by no means settled as yet.

DEATH FROM BLOOD POISON. Mary Evans Comes to Her Death Through a Bitten Thumb. AUGUSTA, Ga., April 11 .- [Special.] - Mary Evans, the negro woman who bit off Mary Moultrie's ear last Friday, died this morning in Crawford's alley. The case had been put in the hands of the law, and was to have been tried on yesterday, but was postponed on ac count of the disabled condition of both parties. The combatants had made friends, and were desirous of having the matter settled. As this was impossible, the case was fixed for two weeks hence, to give the parties a chance to recover from the effects of their wounds. Mary Moultries' ear was bitten completely off, and Mary Evans' arm was badly swollen from a bite on her thumb given her by her opponent. Except for this swelling, she appeared entirely well yesterday evening, and no idea of blood poison was entertained at all until she was found dead this morning at 4 o'clock at her home in Crawford's alley.

Your correspondent saw Mary Evans an hour after the scrimmage last week, and she was the picture of strength and vitality. DEALING IN OPTIONS.

Important Decision by the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., April 11.—The supreme court has decided a case of unusual interest to grain dealers and dealers in options. It was a suit brought by a Chicago broker against a Robraska speculator on a note given to cover margins. The court held that as there was no it ention of parties to purchase and receive grain, and no intention of sellers to deliver the same, no recovery could be had on contract. on considering such contract, although out-ward forms of law may have been compiled with, yet where the defense is that contract is a wagering one and not intended for actual sale and delivery of property, it is the duty of courts to go behind the contract and examine the facts to ascertain its true character.

Here the old man looked up sharply and said: "I won't say no; I won't say ves; I don't know nothin' and I don't want to know. I don't want to be no witness."

"What about that report circulated in Atlanta Tuesday evening saying that he had contessed?"

They have told on any stories; some one says this and some one else says that, and some even tell me some things that they say I said that I never said, and I have just set my mind that I wouldn't say nothin' nor I wouldn't know nothin', before they had me sayin' that I killed the man reveal!" myself."
"What about Tom saying that you told him

The old man closed his eyes, and spitting out a mouthful of tobacco juice. said: "I don't know what Tom said and what he didn't say; people around here tell too many tales for me to believe anything they say."

"What about that confession that was printed last Tuesday?"

"I didn't see no confession. But," looking around nervously, "I don't say no; I don't say yes. I don't know, an' I don't want to know. I tell you I don't want to be no witness."

The old man said this as if he were repeating a well taught lesson. He would seem about to say something, but would suddenly catch himself and repeat this answer.

Seeing that nothing could be learned from the old man, Reviere's wife was visited.

Mrs. Reviere is, as has already been stated in The Constitution, a handsome woman. As she came out of the house she was asked: "What have you heard from Mr., Reverie lately?"

"What have you heard from Mr., Reverte lately?"

"Well, I haven't heard since I was down there on Monday," she answered. "I don't hear much, exiled as you might call it away out here ten miles from nowhere. I have here used to having some lady friends call every day when I lived in Augusta, but out here I haven't seen a paper or a stranger until you came."

Then turning to a young man, a friend, standing by, she asked:
"Can't you send me out some papers when you go back to town?"
The young man promised and remarked that there was a statement that Reviere had "No, not a word, If he had confessed at all No, not a word, I he had corressed it all he would have said something to me about it last Monday when I was with him. I don't beliave a word of it. Why, he was too tender hearted to even hurt anybody, let alone kill him. When he was learning medicine in hanvite he would frequently failt, when he Augusta he would frequently faint when he was in the dissecting room, and I know he couldn't do this."

"Do you believe he had any hand in it?"
"No, I can't believe anything bad of him.
He always treated me just as kind as he could and always gave me just whatever I wanted, and was so kind to me that I couldn't believe of him if I tried.'

"Did he ever mention the name of the dead man in your presence?"
"No, I don't believe he knew him. I know he didn't know him long enough to ask him his name. That money that they say he took "Because be took more than $177 from Augusta with him."

"Do you think he will be cleared at the

"Ho you wants is a fair trial?"
"I don't know. All he wants is a fair trial and a jury of fair-minded men, and I feel almost sure he will come out all right."
"What has he told you in connection with this affair?"
"He has never said anything to me about it. He started to say something about that other

"No! If he were to confess to anybody, he would certainly confess to me."

"Then what do you have to say about what Tom has said?"

Tom has said?"
"Tom told me that he just said that for fun.
He did not hear pa say anything about my husband making any confession. Mr. Reviere is my husband, and if pa or anybody else says anything against him, I will never speak to them as long as I live."
With this Mrs. Reviere turned and entered

With this Mrs. Reviere turned and entered the house.

A prominent business man, in speaking of it today, said that he thought since the first excitement the feeling among the people had materially changed. He thought that with a fair trial, and twelve good and true men on the jury, Reviere would get off very easy. Everybody here thinks that Reviere, if he killed the man, did the people of the community a great good in riding the country of such a desperate looking character. But the bad part has just come to light in a letter of recommendation purporting to come from Mr. J. Sawyer, but not in his handwriting. Mr. Sawyer was seen and said that he could not recollect having given any such letter to Reviere, and he was sorry to hear that such a letter had been found in his possession.

The people here are patiently waiting for the trial, and expect to hear the confession, as they now have it, confirmed by Reviere, when he is put upon the stand.

A NOTED ENGLISHMAN.

The Visit to Atlanta of Henry Grattan Gulnness.
One of the greatest of English philanthropists is now in Atlanta, a guest at the Spelman seminary. This is Henry Grattan Guinness, founder and honorary director of the International Missionary institute. He is a typical Englishman of the solid sort —solid of body and solid of mind. His face is lighted up by a smile that smooths out the typical English, and makes him look the true, Christian-hearted philanthropist that he really is. There is a sort of simplicity and massiveness about him that cover up detail and make him look like the pictures of Gladstone. NOT USED TO INTERVIEWING.

"Now," he said smiling, "I must explain that this interviewing is something we are not used to in England. It is altogether new to me, and all I can do is to answer questions.'

"How is your missionary work progressing?"
"Finely," he replied with some warmth.
"Finely. I have just come from Mexico,

"There are eighty such institutions in this country, founded by the northern people at a cost of $40,000,000. In those schools there are young students and teachers well educated and well fitted for the missionary work."

"Then you are looking for missionaries?"

"Yes, for people that are fitted and willing to become missionaries. I have found two in this school, and hero is a letter from another."

"What are their names?"

"How many missionaries have the three schools together been sending out?"

"About an average of one a week."

"Do all of them go to Africa?"

"Oh, no, through Africa is one of the most inviting fields. The negro, we believe, is of one kind with us. They are sinners, just as we are. They can become saints. The Bible don't say, 'Go breach the gospel unto all the world except Africa,' It don't say that. It says preach the gospel unto all nations.

THE EDUCATION IS PRACTICAL.

"What is taught in your schools?"

"The education is as practical as it can be made. Along with theology and the more ordinary branches of education goes the study of medicine and other practical sciences. We receive all denominations alike. 'Freely ye have received, freely give.'"

"Well, how do your papers ever get news?"
"An American would say that they don't get the news at all. There is a great difference between the newspapers of this country and that. The newspapers of this country are not on so high a plane. They furnish sensational reading, and tell ordinary things in a sensational way. An American paper is fairly jumping and bristling with sensations. They pander to popular notions, and to the most excitable and unworthy elements of feeling. It is all a sort of—I'm about to use a harsh word—clap-trap.

We are accustomed to think of it as immense, and it sounds odd to hear the American speak of it as a very small country. "Then we are more republican in form of government than you believe. fact the News says:

We regret that these emissaries of the devil and Joe Smith are still disposed to fatigue the indignation of the good people of Terrell counsy. The Nows counsels no violence toward them further than is involved in the raw hide or the hickory well laid on. That may be sufficient to rid the country of these proselyting beasts; and there is no occasion for violence when mild persuasives prove effective. But be that as it may, the wretches who come into this section and insituate themselves into quiet and honorable homes, to destroy the sanctity of the family relations between those "whom God has joined together," should be made to know and recognize the fact that Terrell soil is, to them, forbidden ground. The wives and daughters of our people mist, be protected from these moral lepters. Physical lepresy is a boon in comparison with the moral pestience that abides in their wake.

After examining her throat, and learning that the pin was cross way throat, and learning that the pin was cross way in it and so low down that it would require an operation, we saw from the amount of blood in the neck and its swollen condition, that it would be certain death to operate, and determined to force the pin to the stomach. We took a piece of sponge, egg-shaped and put it on a steel handle and forced it down her throat into the stomach, once or twice, and she was relieved. When we left she was resting quietly she had no more convenience. throat, and learning that the pin was cross way quietly, she had no more convulsions, and knew those around her. Dr. Hightower's attorney received another in-junction today, preventing the boat from landing and discharging and receiving freights on this dis-puted ground, and tonight the boat cannot land at this place at all, save at Captain Henry's own land-ing, which is on the opposite side of the river.

The shippers down the river should appreciate President Thomas's position and determination to give them transportation, and patiently bear any slight delay that may necessarily occur.

Ho is doing everything he can to accommodate them and if on the 24th, the permanent injunction is gramped, arrangements will be made with all possible dispatch to continue the river traffic.

The directors of the W. and T. R. R., will meet here next Friday to determine definitely what will be done, and try to bring about a compromise, which is doubtful.

The public generally and some of our best legal advisers, concurin the opinion that these injunctions should be withdrawn, as there is a damage suit pending and the railroad is in a prosperous condition and can give bond for a hundred times the amount of damages that is even claimed by Dr. Hightower, While all concur in the opinion that Dr. High tower should have damages, there is quite a difference in opinion as to the amount. It seems that our laws need amending if the public generally must be made to suffer because the compromise cannot be effected, and especially when the railroad is able to pay any damages that a jury may declare the plantiff to have sustained.

We can only walt on the slow process of the law and hope for the best while the case undergoes legal scrutiny.

SUPREME COURT. DECISIONS RENDERED MONDAY,

APRIL 8, 1889. L, E. Bleckley, Chief Justice-Reported for the Constitution by Peeples and Stevens, Supreme Court Reporters. In these cases, Blandford, J., was providen tially prevented from presiding. McGowan vs. Lufburrow. Ejectment, from Chatham. Administrators and executors. Equity. Jurisdiction. Parties. Practice. Chambers. Procedure. Before Judge Adams.

Simmons, J .- 1. A court of equity in this state has concurrent jurisdiction with the court of ordinary for the purpose of distributing estates; and where a petition was addressed to the court of equity by an executrix of an estate and others interested in remainder, setting forth that the estate of testator was largely in-debted, and that it was necessary to sell a part thereof for the purpose of paying the debts, the court had jurisdiction to pass an order authorizing the executrix to sell land mentioned in the petition as proper to be sold for that purpose. Dean vs. Central Cotton Pass Co., 64 Ga. 670.

(a.) This is true, although the schedule a t tached to the petition may have shown that part of the debts in question were debts of the life tenants instead of debts of the estate; it appearing that at least a portion of the indebtedness was due by the estate. (b.) When an application of this sort is made to the chancellor, the law presumes that he will make a proper investigation as to the truth of the allegations contained therein; and it does not appear from the record that such an investigation was not made in this case. If the chancellor did investigate and ascertained that at least a portion of the indebtedness was due by the estate and if he had the proper parties before him, his judgment directing the sale is not void and cannot be attacked collaterally. Code, §3593.

2. A contingent remainder is an estate, under the code, §§2263-5; and minors interested as contingent remaindermen having been named as petitioners, and being represented by their next friend who joined in the petition for the sale of the property, thus became parties, and are bound by the decree. Code,

(a) As soon as the application was presented to the chancellor, and it was disclosed that the to the chancellor, and it was disclosed that the estate of infants was involved, such infants became his wards in chancery, and he obtained power and jurisdiction over their persons and property. Sharp vs. Findley, 71 Ga. 665; 3 Pomeroy eq. jur. $1305, notes.

3. It sufficiently appears from the evidence that the decree for the sale of the land was passed in term time and not at chambers.

4. Failure to file the potition thirty days be-passed in term time and not at chambers.

4. Failure to file the petition thirty days before the term at which the decree was granted (the law at that time requiring bills to be so filed), was at most nothing more than irregularity, and would not have made the decree entered thereon void; but the petition being an exparte one, it was necessary to file it any number of days before the court. Code, §4221.

5. Under the views above expressed, it is unnecessary to determine other questions made.

Simmons, J.—1. The evidence sustains the verdict.

2. The main question in the case being, whether a certain deed was illegally procured, and it being unnecessary to take any account if the deed was valid, the court did right to refuse to refer the case to an auditor and to require the jury to try that issue.

(a) Besides, by $$5507, 4202 of the code, it is within the discretion of the judge, in an equity cause, as to whether he will refer it to an auditor or not supplied to the code.

Judgment affirmed.

James Atkins and J. G. & D. H. Clark, for plaintiff. J. R. Saussy, for defendant.

Cox vs. Murphy. Case, from city court of Savannah. Pleadings. Amendment. Verdict. Before Judge Harden.
Simmons, J.—1. Where the original declaration alleged, in subssance, that plaintiff was attacked in the streets of a city by a wild and ferocious steer, the property of defendants or one of them, that it was in the possession of the servants of one of them, and that the defendants knew that the animal was ferocious, dangerous, and had a propensity for attacking persons, but attempted to drive it through the streets: subsequent amendmants going more into detail as to the manner of plaintiff's injury, but alledging that the street was wild and ferocious, and that this was known to the defendant (the other defendant having been stricken,) were germane to the original decladefendant (the other defendant having been stricken,) were germane to the original declaration and did not introduce a new cause of action. But an amendment which did not allege that defendant knew the animal was vicious, or even that it was vicious, but alleged that defendant kept it so negligently that it escaped and injured plaintiff, introduced a distinct cause of action, and was improperly allowed.

2. There was no evidence that defendant allowed.

2. There was no evidence that defendant had any knowledge that the steer was vicious or ferocious or had any propensity to trample upon people; and as, under the rulling above, plantiff could not recover upon an allegation of negligent driving or negligent escape, the verdict in favor of defendant must be upheld. Judgment reversed.

Judgments. Executions. Dormancy.
Before Judge Bower.
Simmons, J.—Any bona fide action of the plaintiff which hows that he intends to keep his judgment alive, will prevent its dormancy; and where there was an entry or levy of an execution upon certain lands, the levy was not void, aithough the defendant did not own the land at the time it was levied on, and there was no entry of no personal property to be found made prior to the levy on the land, the execution being based on a justice's court judgment. Such an entry, though made by the constable of a different district from that in which the defendant resided, and although he may have made a mistake in levying upon land when there was personal property, or bend when there was personal property land when there was personal property, or before the entry of no personal property to be SENT TO ANY ADDRESS !

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 12, 1889.

Let the People Build and the State Maintain. All difference as to details in raising money for the Georgia confederate home is being rapidly harmonized.

The Augusta Chronicle heartily indorses the plan, and will start the Augusta subscription and push it to round figures. The Chronicle says:

Especially are we anxious to aid this work since we are assured by those having it in charge that it as their plan to build a home by private subscription and petition the legislature to support it.

We do not believe there is a doubt that the legislature will take charge of the home and maintain it, when it is once built and paid for. Not a mail fails to bring us letters from members approving of the plan and urging it forward. Senator Massengale, who has already introduced a bill proposing a constitutional amendment so that the state might build a home, telegraphs on yesterday:

"I fully approve your plan and will cooperate heartily. I will be in Atlanta next week."

Undoubtedly the safest, promptest and best plan is this: Let the people, by free and voluntary subscriptions, build the home, and then make united petition for the state to support it.

Let us raise the $30,000 by Saturday night. Let every Atlantian who has not yet subscribed put his name on the list before that time. And let us hear from every village, town and city in the state. There is no

The "Blocks of Five."

of April 8: Please explain to me through the columns of your paper the meaning of the blocks of five, as used by dley in the late presidential campaign. Explain It in fall. I have read a good deal about it of late, but do not remember reading the first of it, as to how they were employed. Was Dudley ever convicted of any violation of the law for using them? As this is my first question I hope you will answer it. There is no trouble whatever about giving our correspondent the necessary informa During the late campaign, Colonel William W. Dudley, of Indiana, who was connected with the campaign committee of the grand old republican party, he wrote a letter to a political friend in Indiana advising him to separate the floating vote into "blocks of five," so that they could be looked after and taken care of more readily. In other words, the blocks or squads of five were to be bought by the republican heelers and kept together until after they had voted.

Just how many voters were induced in this way to vote for the republican candidates will probably never be known. Indiana is what is called the hoosier state, and there is a white class to be found there which is too poor and illiterate to have the slightest idea of citizenship. The voters of this class are for sale, and it has been the practice of the republican party to buy them. The trouble has been that after they were bought by the republicans they were open to bids from the other side, and It was for this reason that Colonel Bill Dudley wanted them put in charge of a republican drill-master. There was an attempt made to find a true bill against Dudley in Indiana, but there was no evidence that the letter was addressed to a particular person. The envelope had been destroyed. On top of this fact Colonel Dudley sued one or two New York papers for libel on account of the publication of the incriminating letter, but it was found that Dudley would not face the music in New York, and the Evening Post, in order to make everything agreeable and comfortable for Dudley, arranged that his testimony should be taken in Washington.

The issue, however, is still untried, and it will remain so. Colonel Dudley is a fraud, and, in this business, he thoroughly represents his party.

Crank and Slanderer.

The Rev. Dr. Justin D. Fulton, who re cently visited Georgia and attempted to excite the negroes against the Catholics, has returned to Boston in a very bad humor.

Last Sunday the doctor gave his congregation the results of his trip. He said that a very low degree of morality existed in the south, and the lips of her ministers were padlocked. They dared not preach life or citizenship-they simply preached gospel. He charged that the social relations of the whites and blacks in the south were on the same level as when slavery existed, and declared that the virtue of colored girls was made an article of traffic, even with men high in religious circles. The reverend gentleman informed his hearers that he desired to take a trip to Europe, and asked them to contribute liberally, as he would need at least $1,000 to defray his expenses. The collection, he said, would have a great bearing on his tour. "May God bless you as you give,"

was the conclusion of his appeal. It is difficult to understand how this erank, slanderer and beggar can have any following, and in point of fact it is neither very large nor very respectable. Still, Dr. Fulton has a sufficient hold upon the emotions and the prejudices of a certain class to insure him a comfortable living. Perhaps it is a mistaken charity that allows this man to go at large. His place is in the penitentiary or the lunatic asylum.

The Birmingham Scheme.

The meeting of the white republicans in Birmingham for the purpose of forming a white republican party seems to have had a curious effect in that neighborhood. According to our special dispatch, the attempt to organize a white republican party in Alabama has created as much confusion and division there as a similar movement did in Georgia several years ago. In both cases, an attempt has been made to get rid of the negro as a political factor. and it is difficult to see how the intentions of the movement are greatly different from those that are ascribed to the solid democratic south by the northern republican

In Georgia there was an attempt to get up a white republican party under the plea that the negro, as a voter and a citizen, is obnoxious to the white republican voter. The movement failed for the very good reason that without the aid and sympathy of the negroes there could be no republican party in the south.

For this reason the Birmingham movement will prove futile. There is nothing whatever in it, and the probability is that it will come to grief as the Georgia movement did-that is to say, that it will die as soon as it is born.

Take the negro out of the republican party in Alabama and there can be no such party there. In Alabama nine-tenths of the republicans are negroes, and the attempt to flout the brother in black will not succeed. It will not succeed for the very good reason that the negro in the south is the republican party of the south, and all efforts to crowd him out will prove a failure. The Birmingham scheme has been tried in various ways before, but it has never succeeded; and it never can succeed, because a few whites cannot flock together by themselves and form a party.

EVEN the little children are sending in their contributions to aid in taking care of the confederate veterans. There is something touch ing in the sympathy that prompts the little ones to contribute. The movement, however, covers the whole state and all the people.

THE people have their hearts set on the Georgia confederate home!

The generous and enthusiastic response to THE CONSTITUTION'S appeal for a Georgia confederate home shows that the time is ripe for the movement.

BOULANGER WOULD PERHAPS find it to his advantage to take up his residence in London. Louis Napoleon found it easy to live in that city and make his influence felt in French politics.

S. S. RICKLEY, PRESIDENT of a bank at Columbus, Ohio, had an exciting adventure several years ago. He was in his private office when man entered and demanded fifty dollars. The president kindly told him that he could not spare it. The man presented a pistol, and fired, the ball passing through Mr. Rickley's eyes and making him totally blind for life. Instead of escaping, the man blew out his own brains. Recently Mr. Rickley heard of the affair in which Mr. Moffat, the Denver banker, was robbed by a man who entered his private office, and forced him under threats, to pay him a large sum of money. The blind banker at once sat down and wrote Mr. Moffat the following letter: "I am still living, but totally blinded, and am having this written for your comfort by an amanu-ensis. Of course life is sweet, and it is gratifying to possess that which all men aim to get-money and possessions—but oh! how much sweeter would be the light of day; at least to me, without one dollar of money or one foot of ground? and you, my dear fellow banker, may congratulate yourself and yours on your fortunate escape. We now have our windows screened, our counters screened, and I migh we have say, our conscience screened. The door t my private room is constantly locked, and no one ad mitted unless he be known or can identify himself. Generally the lessons of experience are much dearer than those of observation. From the Philadelphia Times. THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION calls for new white house, and as the residence for centuries to come of our presidents, let it be a building of such magnificent appointments that it will be a structure of national pride." To this the New York Sun answers-"Stuff. Let it continue to be such a mansion as a modest American gentleman, temporarily entrusted with executive responsibilities, can live in for four or eight years comfortably and without cranial enlargement.

Why doesn't Mr. Dana live in the odd rooms of the Sun office? or Mr. Childs in the odd rooms of the Ledger office? or Mr. Singerly in the odd rooms of the Record office? Why have all of them luxuriant homes in the city for winter and salu-brious homes by sea or forest for summer where they can escape the cares of the day's duties and be at home? They are all "modest American gentlemen," any of whom could be safely "entrusted with executive responsibilities." and "without cra nial enlargement." They have their shops and their homes; and the white house is now only the open shop of the president, leaving him practically without privacy or home for himself and family.

The white house is full of lustrous associations and memories, and it should not be changed. It is now entirely needed for the comfortable perform ance of executive duties and for the free access of the American people, and it should be dedicated to those uses while a comfortable and fitting residence or home for the chief magistrate should be promptly rected. There is not now even a decent recepti om for visitors to the president, and it is a re-cach to the nation that the president and his mily are not provided with a home worthy of the

The list took a sharp step upward on yesterday, going snugly over $22,000.

We look for a fair increase today, and for Saturday we look to see the biggest jump the list has yet taken in one day. Many towns and cities are at work on lists that will be sent in Saturday evening, and we are very hopeful of closing up the $30,000 in Sunday morning's paper, when the whole list will be printed, properly classified and

We specially urge everybody to send in their names and subscriptions before Saturday night, so that they can be acknowledged on Sunday morning, and the organization effected, and the work begun. There should be no lagging and no reluctance in this sacred work. Send in today or tomorrow.

Governor Gordon Contributes $100. The following letter from Governor Gordon will be read with pleasure all over Georgia. Like all other workers in this great scheme, Governor Gordon has no "plan" to which he is bound-except to do all that in him lies for its promotion and success. The governor's name is a tower of strength, and his always with the old soldiers, of whom he is easily the chief.

ATLANTA, Ga,, April 11-Henry W. Grady-My Dear Sir: I wish to contribute $100 to the confederate home, and I much regret that my circumstances will not permit me to give many times that amount. I hope the home can be built upon some comprehensive plan, making it self-sustaining, as suggested in my former communication; but, no matter what may be the plan, my heart and hand are with you in this work. Yours truly, COLUMBUS, Miss., April 9 .- The editor of the Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., My Dear Sir: The mission of the noble hearted Texan to New York fer the purpose of soliciting aid for a confederate home did not commend itself to my best judgment. I have watched the movement with great interest and the major's disappointment is really greated than I anticipated. I am heartily sorry he ever went there. We are not able in these southern states to pension all our maimed and disabled old confederate soldiers, but we can certainly kee them above want and suffering. Dear sir: THE CONSTITUTION of April 6th, has just reached me. These lines of all others in a ringing editorial, touch my heart. "Let us hear from every man who loves Georgia and honor the menwho ught for her." With me, these words cover the whole ground. Years ago, when at "the ront," I learned to respect the confederate oldier as a brave man; I have since learned to esteem him as a true man and a good friend. Since one historical day, when at Vicksburg, I pened my haversack for the benefit of those who then so conscientiously wore the gray as I did the blue, I have never hesitated to divide. I enclose my check, the Yankee's mite.

Words From the Press.

It is a valuable part of statesmanship to keep alive the spirit of the people, especially in a country where so many machines are being aggrandised with vast advantages over individual men. It will not only be valuable to the south, but valuable to the whole country, because in the long struggle, the beginning of which is on us now, tween the people and the tendencies of government to centralization in itself and to centralizing vast fortunes and powers in vast

POINTS IN REFERENCE TO GENERAL PHILLIPS'S APPOINTMENT.

He Proposes to Run His Office On a High Plane in the Best Interests of the Public Service, and Therefore, Appointed General Phillips, For the Fresent--He Declares That No Applications Were Filed for the Clerkship.

The pow-wow over the appointment of General Phillips continues. Mr. Darnell was found yesterday and asked

He Aidn't have very much to say-but he talked to the point.

"I have this to say," said Mr. Darnell in reference to the matter, "I propose to conduct the office of United States district attorney on a high plane. I am determined to run the office carefully, cautiously, prudently, and in the highest and best interests of the public service. That is just what I intend to do and I think that I am warranted in what has been done for the present." 'How about applicants? Did not Smith Easley, a well known colored republican, apply for the clerkship?"

'No, sir. Since my induction into the office of United States district attorney no one, either directly or indirectly, has filed an application with me for any position. In other words, no man has applied in person or through friends, in any manner, shape or form, for any appointment from me."

With this Mr. Darnell stated that he had nothing more to say on the subject just now and declined to speak further for the press. ONE DEMOCRAT'S VIEW.

An observant democrat remarked yesterday: Why, den't you understand the situation. Just think for a moment. Don't you know that General Phillips does not owe his appointment to republican influence. It is clear to my mind that Darnell appointed him at the instance of a certain influential democrat. I may be mistaken, but this is my firm belief, based on strong reasons. My word for it, a democrat, high in position and power, is at the bottom of the appointment of General Phillips. This, I am fully persuaded, is the truth of the matter, but it would be extremely difficult to prove, because Darnell and the democrat are both too shrewd to give the snap

SOME PLAIN LANGUAGE. Henry Rucker says that the colored politician lied when he stated to THE CONSTITUTION that he (Rucker) called on Colonel Buck Monday in the interest of an applicant for the

"I didn't call on anybody in the interest of any applicant for the place," said Rucker.

The colored contingent are still terribly wrought up over the appointment.

A group of prominent colored men were holding a sort of a council of war on Decatur

"Why don't Darnell talk," said one. "We want to see his explanation. I don't see how he can defend the appointment. There are colored men in Atlanta who are competent to fill the place, but even if he could give a good reason for not appointing a colored man, which he can't do, how is he going to explain away the fact that he didn't give the clerkship to a white republican instead of a before-the-war, died-in-the-wool, red-hot Bourbon democrat? There are a number of white republicans in Atlanta who would have been glad to get that two thousand dollar clerkship-republicans who are not only competent, but need just such offices, and deserve them, too, on the just such offices, and deserve them, too, on the score of efficient party service. Let Colonel Darnell explain why he passed his party by and picked his clerk out of the democratic camp. He can't do it without showing up a deal with some democrat, for you couldn't convince the republicans of Atlanta in a hundred years that the appointment was not the result of a bargain and sale. How about that $800-don't that show it? I'd rather have Mr. Ben Hill in the office than Darnell."

A RIG DISGUST. "I'm just disgusted," said another, "and all awhile," said a colored man, softly.

"We have waited too long already. If the colored people get any offices under this administration they'll be offices that white men wouldn't have. That's what I think about it," remarked another politician.

The colored brother is worked up and no mistake. He is all broken up over the appointment of General Phillips and the outlook generally, and is right now the for recent from the erally, and is right now ripe for revoit from the republican ranks. republican ranks.

There is one exception. A. Graves, the colored man who got the clerkship of the government building the other day. He is about the only happy colored politician in Atlanta.

"I am not ready for an interview quite yet, but you may quote me in The Constitution to this effect: I spent some time in Washingten, and all the indications up that way are that President Harrison is not going to appoint any negroes and carpetbaggers to office in the south. This seems to be the distinct policy of the administration."

The Judge is Happy. "I'm going to get the postmastership at Athens. I've got it all fixed."
Judge D. A. Newson, the famous ballad singer of the republican party, was the gentleman who made that rash stetement.

"With whom have you fixed it, judge?"
"Oh, with Harrison, of course. I've got nobody against me but a negro, and you know Harrison ain't going to appoint any negroes to presidential offices. He's done showed that. Madison Davis was postmaster before and made a good one, but I've got him whipped."

"And the negroes—"
"The negroes have had their day in court, you can see that. President Harrison had you can see that. President marrison had rather appoint a democrat to an office than a negro, and that's right, isn't it?"

The judge is confident of success in his endeavor to serve the good people of Athens in the capacity of stamp-canceler-in-chief.

Franklin, Ky., December 13, 1888. MR. PALMER TALKS.

He Denies That Statement About the Brick-The New Company. Mr. W. D. Palmer, contractor for the city's sewer work for the next five years, made his bond yesterday. It was in the sum of $75,000, and Messrs. J. D. Collins, S. H. Venable and W. H. Venable signed it with him.

Now comes the question offbrick. What brick will be used, and from whom urchased?
And will there be a new brickyard?

In Wednesday's issue of THE CONSTITUTION, Mr. George Parrott, of the Chattahoochee Brick company, was quoted as saying that Mr. Palmer had said he would use that company's brick in case he was awarded the sewer contract. That looked as if the new brickyard project had received its death knell.

But Mr. Palmer denies that. He was in the city yesterday in consultation with Messrs. Will and Sam Venable and Mr. Jim Collins, who are, with him, the incorporators of the new "Collins Brick company."
"The Chattahoochee Brick company has no contract with me or anything at all like a contract, nor have they anything at all upon which they can base any claims of any agree nent on my part to use their brick," he said. "The whole thing happened this way," continued Mr. Palmer. "When I first came up here to look into this thing I sent for Dr. D'Alvigny. My idea was that I might effect a partnership with him. He said that he would not go into a contract for five years, giving as his reason the fear that the Chattahoochee Brick company would put up the price of brick after the first year. silence his fears I went to the Chattahoochce company and got from them a formal offer, in which they agreed that their price would not be higher than $7.50 at any time during the next five years. "That is the only paper they have, and it is nothing more than they give to every person who applies for it. I got that, you understand, for Dr. D'Alvigny's benefit. When he told me he could not go in with me, I paid no more attention to that company's offer, having effected other business arrangements of which the public has alness arrangements of which the public has already been informed.

ready been informed.

"And, by the way, isn't their claim that I am in any way bound to them, utterly foolish?
It is well known that D'Alvigny was their man and all through this thing they fought me as hard as they knew how, through him. If I had agreed to take their brick would they have done this?"

"What about the new brick company?"

"Weli, about the only thing to say is that we will get started just as soon as we possibly can. We expect to put in works using free labor. We are working on the preliminaries now, and will push things

A Runaway. A Runaway.

A fine horse belonging to Mr. W. H. Faith ran away and killed herself yesterday. The horse was hitched to a buggy at Grant's park, a negro holding the horse while Mr. John Faith, Jr., left the buggy. The horse became frightened and being turned loose by the negro, ran down to the Boulevard, out the Boulevard to Decatur, and down Decatur to about the corner of Irwin street, where the horse ran into a wagon, breaking her neck. The buggy was completely wrecked.

An Attempted Burglary. An Attempted Burglary.

Last evening just as Mr. H. F. Hancock's servant was going from the kitchen to the servant's quarters, corner Forest avenue and Calhoun street, she saw a negro man climbing out the window with a quilt rolled up under his arm. The woman screamed and the man dropped the quilt and rau. When the quilt was unrelled it was found that the would-be burglar had carefully collected all that was valuable in the room, including shoes, jewelry, a pocketbook and other things, and rolled them up in the quilt. It came very near being a burglary.

THE RECEPTION OF THE LADIES AUXILIARY.

The Physical Culture Entertainment Touight-Wedding Cards Sent Out-Several Weddings in

The reception given by the Ladies' Auxiliary last evening to the young men of the Christian as-sociation at the Y. M. C. A. building, was a grand success. The president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. W. A. Hemphill, stood in the archway of the first re-ception room to receive the guests, presiding on the occasion with charming grace and cordiality. The rooms were crowded with guests, and a number of students from Oxford and the Technological school were present.

The guests were received by many of Atlanta's most charming married and young ladies who also assisted in serving the delightful refreehments. The parlors were beautifully decorated, the mantels being banked with calla lilies, zealeas, geraniums and ferns, and the chandeliers hung with wisteria and smilax.

In the supper room, connecting with the reading room, everything that could be desired in the way of refreshments was most daintily served. The arge center-table was in the shape of a star, and in the center was a tall epergne filled with calla lilles, geraniums, lilnes, wisteria and other springtime blossoms. Two other tall, flower-filled cutglass epergnes formed the other floral decorations. Tropical fruits, candies and artistically adorned cakes completed the beautiful decorations.

After the refreshments were served the guests all gathered in the reading room to enjoy readings, recitations and music, given by some of the most talented lady and gentlemen members of the Young Mens Christian association.

The entertainment was all in all a complete and charming success—a kind of culminating triumph for the ladies of the Auxiliary to their noble and uccessful work in the good cause. These ladies have, by their untiring and well directed efforts, tone most of the furnishing of the Young Meus' Christian association rooms, and are adding new omforts and conveniences to the apartments con-

NEW YORK STOCKS. Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 11.-The stock market again demonstrated its inherent strength today, and in apile of heavy realizations from the trading element again scored a material advance. The remarkable strength of the London market for Americans still continues, and foreign houses here were liberal purchasers today of their specialties, the most connous of which were Louisville and Nashville Lake Shore, St. Paul, Reading, Erle and Union Pacific. A steady demand for stocks from domestic nources continued also, and after the cessation of the selling movement the market rapidly advanced London quotations this morning were 1/4 to 1/2 per cent higher than our last figures, and this market opened upon the same plane, but owing to heavy realizations of the larger traders there was no realizations of the larger traders, there was no attempts in the early dealings, and this encouraged a demonstration against the list on the part of bears. The movement was soon over and the market became dull, except in a few specialties. The depression lasted until the last hour, when the buying of Reading by some of the most prominent brokers and Philadelphia interests started the upward movement which extended to the entire list. The market developed more animation than had been shown at any previous time of the day, and marked advances were made all around, Rock Island being specially conspicuous with a jump of 1½ per cent, while Atchison reached a point of 2 Der cent above its lowest price of the forenoon.

The highest prices were reached shortly before the close, and realizing sales started the list off a small close, and realizing sales started the list off a small fraction, but the close was active and strong at about the best prices of the day. A great feature of the day was activity and strength in unlisted industrial shares, and, as yesterday, sugar trusts were the leaders, continuing their rapid rise of yesterday, and after opening at 89½ rapidly rose to 95½ without a break. Cotton Oil was also active and very atrong in the afternoon, closing with a gain of 1½ per cent. Manhattan was a weak spot. All the rest of the active shares are higher and San Francisco preferred rose 2½ per cent. Chesapeake and cisco preferred rose 2% per cent, Chesapeake and Ohlo first preferred 1%, Rock Island, Omaha and Consolidated Gas 1¼ each, Burlington and Atchisor each I and others fractional amounts. A Co.'s cotton droular on the market today says:
Today has been one of great surprises in the cotton parket and one that is not likely to be forgotten very soon by shorts and the boars generally. At the opening, spot cotton in Liverpool was steady with sales of 12,000 bales. Futures, however, showed a decline of 164 nenes and it was thought with line of 1-64 pence, and it was thought by the majority of the traders here that our market wou open lower in sympathy; but, contrary to expecta-tion, there was a good domand and the first figures were steady and unchanged to 1 point above yesterday's closing figures. The scalpers were inclined to sell a little early in the day and under these press-ures prices receded a point, but the second and area prices receded a point, but the second and great uprise of the day was the cable from Liverpool reporting a strong closing, with prices 264 pence higher than last night. On this, there was a general rush to cover shorts and with very little cotton oftened for sale, buyers run is and 14, with but small trading on the advance and the built existing.

months and 6 and 8 points on the late deliveries. months and 6 and 8 points on the late deliveres. Spot cotton was advanced 1-16. The southern markets are firm. The market seems to have gotten into the hands of a new set of bulls who are the party that were recently short on it and covered up and went long only recently. The general sentiment after the close of the market favors a reaction. We would rather sell than at the moment, because we think that the market is entitled to a reaction. HENRY CLEWS & Co.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 11—Trading in wheat was quite active today, principally for July, which at present is attracting the most attention. The feeling was weaker and prices ruled lower. May closed %cand June %c lower than yesterday's closing. July opened %@%c lower, sold dff %c more, advanced %c and closed %c lower than yesterday. The weakness resulted from a renewed desire to sell, influenced by a favorable showing made by the government crop report, and the cloudy weather and rains in some sections. The speculative trading on behalf of local operators developed rather heavy selling especially by some two or three floor traders, with good buying by others.
Only u moderate business was transacted in corn and trading was chiefly of a local character and the feeling was steady.

The feature of trading in oats was the increased business due to free selling and a lack of demand. Mess pork was quite active and irregular. The opening was 10@1236c lower and a further decline of 10c was submitted to. Later the demand improved 7½@10c, but settled back 2½@50 and closed steady. Lard was easier and closed at medium figures. Short ribs were fairly active and closed at medium

JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT, THE BEST NUTRITIVE TONIC

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nursing Mothers, the Weak and Debilitated.

Extract for the past five years in my private practice, and have found it to be the best health-restoring beverage and tonic nutritive known. I have found it especially good for persons convaleacing from fever, in cases of dyspepsia, for mother's nursing, and in cases of weakly children, and also in lung troubles. My attention was drawn by the immense importation semi-monthly, and about a million of bottles imported by you have passed my inspection in the Custom House satisfactorily for the past five years. for the past five years.

An Illinois Official Talks About the Famous Crook-McCarty Served Seven Years at Joliet, Ill., and a Number of Years in Other Places-A Clever Law-Breaker-Telegrams About Him.

A number of telegrams came to police headquarters yesterday concerning the man Foster, alias McCarty, who was arrested with too much jewelry in a Collins street bagnio by Patrolman Jim Reeves Tuesday night.

The news of the man's arrest and of his suspected identity as Charley McCarty, the fa-mous crook, were printed first in The Consti-

Fortunately for the police, the arrest of Foster was witnessed by an Illinois detective.
"Watch that man," whispered the detective to Captain Couch, as the man was locked up.

"Why?" asked the captain, "Who is he?"
"It's Charley McCarty. Watch him close." The prisoner was locked up in one of the new iron cells, and questioned closely concerning his recent movements.

"My name is J. W. Foster," said he. "I have been postmaster in Genessee, Livingston county. I am just now from Edwardsville,

The story was straight, or seemed to be. At any rate, the prisoner was thoroughly familiar with the country, and if he was not an honest man he was acting one to perfection.

Two minutes later, after Captain Couch left him, Foster was found trying to unlock the door of his cell. He had managed to get hold of the keys, and was making good use of his As stated in THE CONSTITUTION three watches were found in his pockets, One is a double case gold watch, stem winder, the letters "W. T. K." on the dial, 14 karat, number case 24884, number works 511876, "Universal timekeeper." Another is a ladies' double case gold watch

Is this this man Foster?

The police think not. It is more likely that he knew Foster intimately, and that he is no other than Charley McCarty.

He is identified positively as McCarty by the Illinois officer.

"And what is more," said the Illinois man last night, 'he's one of the cleverest all-round crooks in this country. He can do anything in the way of a crook. He served seven years at Joliet. Another time he was in at Peoria. At Joliet McCarty made a desperate effort to escape from Frank Rand. A servant in the jail, a woman, furnished McCarty with a little 22-calibre pistol. McCarty covered the sheriff with it, and as Hitchcock broke McCarty fired, grazing the skin along Hitchcock's temple, and catting the hair like a razor. Hitchcock finally got the best of it, and McCarty served out his time."

"What about his record before that?"

"It was the same in New York. The Joliet term was for burglary. McCarty can do anything."

Among the telegrams received vesterday was one of inquiry from Charlotte, N. C., concerning the jewelry found on McCarty's person.

Nothing definite has been done yet in the creek's case, but it is expected that an officer will be here for him today or tomorrow.

The island of Nantucket is off the track of the modern world. The people and their customs are very unlike those in any other part of the world—the "off-island part," as the Nantucketers are wont to call it.

Old fashioned customs and habits prevail. They know but little about the new-fangled manners and methods of modern social life. They follow the beaten paths of a century ago, live simple, thrifty, laborious lives, and furnish little business for the doctors.

They thrive financially and physically.

They thrive financially and physically.

A visitor at an evening gathering on the island, not long since, tells how one lady, aged ninety-one, presided at the piano, and another, aged eighty-five danced. "And you may take my word for it," adds the visitor, "that the dancing was sure-enough dancing, if one might judge from the lady's snapping eyes, nervous speech and decissive character."

Locality and climate would seem to have comparatively little effect on health and longevity if people lived simply, as nature dictates, and when ailing built up with nature's simple remedies, like Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, instead of pulling down the system by using poisonous mineral drugs.

People who hasten to the physician every time they have a headache, or experience any of the miner evidences of nature's sure revolt against disobedience of her laws, will not be found dancing at eighty-live. The mineral poisons of the apothecary lead to early physical decay.

The long-lived, rugged Nantucketers, who enjoy life's pleasures when octogenarians, illustrate what the "off-island" portion of the world may experience if they live by nature's law and use old fashioned log-cabin remedies of roots and herbs for the ordinary ills that flesh the hoir to SOUTHERN GRANITE FOR LOUISVILLE Mayor Jacob Talks About His Visit to the Some Suits and Settlements in Superior South.

In speaking of southern granite, Mayor Jacob, upon his return to Louisville, said:

"As far back as 1879 I had been trying to buy southern granite, and since I made the first venture in 1882, St. Louis and Cincinnati have both utilized that material. We found excellent granite near Atlanta, but a magnificent quality of stone is quarried both at Columbia, South Carolina, and at Little Rock, and as the latter place is but five hundred miles from here, and as there is better rall-road facilities, Little Rock miners should make the lowest bid for granite delivered here. We would not allow the interested parties to give us samples, but we made our own selections hap hazard, and the samples taken by us, consequently, represent the product of the quarry. The granite is every bit as good as the New England seacoast stone, and is even harder—so hard I am afraid it will take on a polish. We have every reason to be satisfied with our trip, which will result in much benefit to the city when the contracts for about thirty-five thousand or forty thousand tons of granite are awarded." In speaking of southern granite, Mayor

Major Jacob also told of several funny incidents of the southern tour:

"At the Ponce de Leon," he said, "a fisherman asked me how much fish I wanted that day. I thought he was crazy and paid no attention to him. A gentleman shook hands with me and assured me that my kindness to his sick wife would never be forgotten. And he complained to me of an overcharge in his bill, and I thought everybody was crazy until I saw Mr. Flagler, the preprietor of the hotel, and the resemblance between us was most striking, and the seeming insanity of the people was then explained away."

That tired feeling and loss of appetite are entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine. Try it and see.

THE FIRST PICNIC OF THE SEASON-EVERYBODY ON

THE QUI VIVE. All Should Go, and With Filled Baskets, Indulge in Good Eating and Give Themselves Up to Pleasure.

In a few days the first picnic of the season will be announced officially, and all the children will be joyous in anticipation of the enjoyment in store for them. All those who intend going should provide themselves with well filled baskets, and great care should be taken in selecting such things as are enjoyed at a picnic. Few people would enjoy a Welch rabbit, or an oyster stew at a picnic; but show us, tell us who would not enjoy one of the fine little six and eight pounds country cured hams we have just received. We have some as small as four and a half pounds. They are close trimmed, and as sweet as a butter-nut, free from salt, and just the thing to boil for a picnic or broil, or boil for breakfast or a hasty meal; so some over and secure one of the sweetest country hams it has ever been your pleasure to eat. We also have small bottle pickles and loose pickles of all kinds for the picnic—(that will be announced officially,) not to speak of the boiled boned ham which we sell sliced for your sandwiches. We also have the finest selected, imported key sardines, easy to open at the picnic, and little jars of all kinds of sweetmeats and such like, just the thing to fill your basket with. Now, be sure you remember this, and when the picnic is announced come over to our store, fill your basket with any of the choice delicacies that suit your taste, and you will enjoy yourselt the more. Every morning we receive, fresh from the garden, all kinds of fresh vegetables. We also receive fresh shipments direct, of fancy strawberries. We have just received our new crop olives in bulk, our new Swiss cheese, and a new invoice of Saratoga chips. We also have fancy onions, plekled in bulk as well as sweet pickled peaches. Our 36 cent Jersey butter still-takes the lead. Our Fermentum still remains the best and quickest yeast on the market. It is new on the market, but has already won laurels for its qualities, and get one of the little pig hams, country sugar cured.

Let Every Housekeeper Read It.

To THE EDITORS CONSTITUTION-Gentlemen: For fifteen years I have watched you as a mother would watch her babe. I have seen you grow from the cradle to your present manhood, and proud am I of you, and especially so for the manly stand you have taken in trying to build up a home for the poor and disabled confederate soldiers. In looking over THE CONSTITUTION of the 10th and reading the correspondence from the different donors, I was forcibly struck by one written by that noble and generous hearted gentleman, ex-Governor Bullock. The idea struck me that we could all do Bullock. The idea struck me that we could all do something for this grand cause. Now, why not overy retail merchant in the city give the profits of one day's sales for this fund? Now, in order to set the ball in motion, I propose to give next Saturday, April 13th, and it is with the people of Atlanta to say what I shall donate to this fund. For every dollar I take in on April 13th I will give fifteen cents to the home of the confederate veterans. I hope that every housekeeper in Atlanta will come to my store on April 13th, that I may sell one thous to my store on April 13th, that I may sell one thou-sand dollars' worth of groceries. Should I sell the above amount I will present to THE CONSTITUTION one hundred and fifty dollars for the fund. VISIT OF THE COUNTY COMMISSON-ERS TO THE ALMSHOUSE.

"Boys, take care of yourselves," said Colonel Adair, as three carriages were emptied of their occupants on the lawn in front of Fulton ounty almshouse yesterday.

The boys took care of themselves. The guests of the commissioners were Mr. Sam Inman, Mr. H. W. Grady and Governor Gordon and Mayor Glenn were invited, but were unable to attend. Judge W. L. THE BEILDINGS AND GROUNDS.

The county owns 320 acres of fine land out there seven miles from the city, and there is a goodly number of acres in a high state of cultivation. The remainder is well wooded.

Dr. Hope, under the direction of Colonel Adair, who has been chairman of the almshouse committee for four years, has done a vast amount of improvement. The woods between the white and colored quarters are being trimmed and laid off into a spacious park which grows in beauty every year,

A whitewashed fence encloses a large lawn, in the midst of which, on a commanding eminence, stands an $8,000 brick structure, where the white inmates are cared for.

COMFORT AND CLEANLINESS.

The first thing that strikes the visitor is the comfortable appearance of the apartments.

The rooms are lighted and ventilated, and constructed so as to be cool in summer and well warmed in winter.

The floors, walls, ceilings, everything from the bettern are serminglusly neat and clean.

The bedding is clean and comfortable, and the accommodations are better than are found in many an Atlanta home.

A tower, filled by horse power, furnishes ample water, and the out-buildings are all well arranged. The kitchen and diningroom are well arranged, and the food is bountiful.

Except the simple name of the thing, no one could object to the fare and lodging at the almshouse. There are thirty-two inmates of the lione at present. the home at present. HOW IT IS SUPPORTED.

How it is supported.

Less than ten cents a day per capita is the small sum required to support the inmates, including salaries and hired labor.

Last year there were 450 bushels of potatoes, 435 bushels of corn, 1,800 pounds of bacon, the pigs being fed off the slops and refuse; quantities of milk, butter, chickens and eggs, amply sufficient to supply the institution.

Mules and cows, hogs and poultry are kept as on any well regulated farm.

Dr. Hope sowed the lawn in orchard and blue grass on the snow, and has secured a beautiful stand. The park will also be sown in grass, and will add to the beauty of, as well as the verying from the grands. as the revenue from the grounds.

THE COLORED QUARTERS.

Six neat, new, double cottages have been erected at a cost of $250 cach, for the colored inmates. There are fifteen of these well housed and well fed, better than many of the negroes in Atlanta.

This department is about half a mile from the main building; and just beyond is a cosy white building where the eight unfortunate imbeciles are kindly cared for by the matron, Mrs. Gallagher, whose good taste and indefatigable industry is shown in the clean, sweet smelling rooms, and the orderly appearance of everything there. everything there. Some distance away is the chaingang stock-

These women work the grounds and help to support the institution. Among these nine convicts are two women from Habersham county, who are said to be among the best

The only hired laborer is a gardener, who is paid $25 per month, and the gardens produce an abundance of vegetables of all kinds, bountiful for the needs of the almshouse.

An ELEGANT LUNCH.
At one o'clock the visitors sat down to an elegant lunch in the dining room of the superintendent's apartments, and the jests and stories that gave a relish to that meal would fill volume.

volumes.

Colonel Adair was master of ceremonies and acquitted himself in royal style, to the delight of his associates whose appreciation of his efforts to entertain were only equalled by the keenness of their appetites after the morning spent among the woods and fields.

The buildings and grounds were all inspected and the management was commended by every one present.

To see those old withered dames, homeless and friendless, reposing on their beds by the cool windows looking out on the woods all abloom with dogwood and honeysuckle, was enough to convince the most pessimistic that there is a vast amount of true charity in the werld.

Fulton county has its full share. From "Chuckaluck" Bill Waters, whose father once owned 200 slaves and who was a dashing blood in his day, down to little Johnnie, the imbecile boy, a sort of pet of Mrs. Gallagher, all looked happy and contented. It was pretty late in the afternoon when Colonel Adair said; "Boys, take care of yourselves," for the last time.

The party turned their faces homeward, and all voted the day one of the pleasantest on Firs, convulsiods, dizziness and headache Firs, convuisions, dizziness and neadache are prevented and cured by using Warner's Safe Cure. Why? Dr. Owen Reese says: "The tenuity (watery condition) of the blood in Bright's Disease produces cerebral symptoms, the serous (watery portion) is filtered through the blood vessels of the brain, causing anemia and subsequent head symptoms."

That is why these symptoms yield to Warner's Safe Cure. It gets rid of the Bright's Disease and provents the blood from becoming watery. When a man becomes firmly convinced that he is a genius, then it is that a fringe slowly begins to form around the bottom of his pants, Sold by all reliable dealers.

"God's finger touched him and he slept." At four o'clock on the morning of March 26th, 1889, Dr. M. D. Sanders, of Smithville, Ga., died at his own residence, surrounded by relatives and sympathising friends. His remains were interred sympathising friends. His remains were interred in Oak Grove cemetery today at 10 a.m. Deceased was born in Jackson county, Ga., about sixty years ago, and received a liberal and polished education, which he afterwards utilized in gathering a generous stock of useful and varied information. This was ever afterwards the property of his friends for the asking. Having chosen medicine as his lifetime avocation, he bent all the energies of a bright mind and an enthusiastic will to the accomplishment of the single purpose of being no laggard in the race. After graduating with credit at the medical college in Augusta, Ga., he practiced his profession for a short time near his former home, and, about thirty years ago, moved to southwest Georgia, where he spent the remainder of his days in the arduous endeavor to relieve "the ills that flesh is heir to." His thousands of patrons can attest how well be kept abreast with the advancement in his profession. As a practitioner, he was a marked success. Careful, cautious, conscientious, honest, devoted, faithful—those who knew him well felt no fear in entrusting their cases to his hands. As a hurse, he was kind, tender, patient and untiring. The writer gratefully acknowledges a weight of obligation to the doctor and his lovely Christian reliet for their tender solicitude and gratuitous ministrations around the dying bed of a mother, which he nor his have ever been able to requite: but while the weight of obligation is far more pleasant than onerous, he would gladly check on the boundless stores of eternal love to pay the debt we owe.

About a year after coming to this portion of Geor-gia, Dr. Sanders married Mrs. Mary Scarborough, relict of Dr. Scarborough, of Lee county. As a consider quence of this union, he assumed both the paternal and legal guardianship of Miss Fannis Scarborough, the fatherless daughter of his wife. The reciprocal paternal and filial devotion that at once sprang up between the guardian and ward, so suddenly brought together in this intimate relationship, was pleasing to witness. This band of love survived all else than death, and we feel assured that this fell destroyer simply snapped the mortal cord, leaving the spiritual to attain its full fruition in eternity.

Miss Fannie subsequently married Colonel C. C.
Sanders, of Gainesville, Ga., a brother of her step-father. Thus southwest Georgia lost one of its loveliest and most attractive daughters, while Mrs.
Sanders early became not only one of the most Sanders early became not only one of the most society of her adopted home, but a joy to the home circle and a bright and shining light to the Baptist church of that place. After a lapse of many years, the same is true today, while Colonel Sanders and his brother Miniard wield a power in the mercan tile and financial marts of Gainesville, the gem city of the Piedmont region. Were we asked to say what we conceive to be the doctor's greatest virtues we should answer, his devotion and fidelity to friendship.

"To them ourself be true; And it must follow as night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man."
Any tender of consolation to the relatives already mentioned and to others, including a sister, as well as to his many faithful friends, would be worse than fuille. We would simply point them to the confident assurance given by their dying friend, "It is well," ask them to follow in imagination the departing spirit of their loved one, witness the triumphant entry into "the beautiful land of the leal,", hear the walcome plaudit: "Well done" see to what hear the welcome plaudit, "Well done," see to what he has been saved; then resuming again in reality the mortal coil, enumerate a few of the direful fils from which he has been saved:

from which he has been saved:

"A good that never satisfies the mind.
A beauty, fading like the April flowers,
A sweet, with floods of gall that ruce combined,
A pleasure, passing ere in thought made ours,
An honor, that more fickle is than wind,
A glory, at opinion's frown that lowers,
A treasury, which bankrupt time devours,
A knowledge, than grave ignorance more blind,
A vain delight our equals to command,
A sayle of greatness—in effect, a dream;
A swelling thought of holding sea and land,
A service lot, decked with pourpous name."
A fruit, that turns to asse on the lips,
A cup of joy, that poisons him who sips.

HEARTEENDING. Something Astounding About Crime, if Tue, and Should be Investigated.

Is crime on the increase? This question has been agitating the public mind for some time; the expression of opinion have been varied, but a preponderance of evidence goes to show that it is increasing. What is the cause of this increase, the same may be said of this Many causes are assigned, but few will admit that in the progress and enlightenment of this age that we are laking a backward story in anything. we are taking a backward step in anything; but figures are against us, and "figures will not He."

A still graver question for us to consider, is disease increasing? If so, how can we prevent it? From the most reliable information we conclud that disease is rapidly on the increase. The causes of same are as varied as diseases themselves. Among the most prollife in results is our excessive eating and drinking, and our neglect of disease in its earlier stages, leaving it alone until our systems fail to longer stand the extra strain placed upon it. Nothing can be truer than this. "Outraged nature always demands a penalty." always demands a penalty."

You may be a sufferer from piles or come other disease of the lower bowel that you consider slight and therefo e neglect, but the time will come when it will be a grave matter with you, producing effects disastrous to your physical and mental health. Is is not best for you to attend to this early for it will cost you less in suffering and fiancially, and it can cure you without the semblance of pain and without loss of time. Can you efford to pain and without loss of time. Can you afford to, procrastinate and take the risk? I can and will prove to you what I say if you will give me a chance. Call and see me, or write for further information. I will be glad to aid you.

He is a convert of the right kind, for as soon as he got religion he began to put it into practical shape. He confessed that he had stolen a thousand dollars from the county treasury thriven years are and after tailing of the crime. thirteen years ago, and, after teiling of the crime that he had perpetrated and so long concealed, he proceeded to show his repentance. He also thought that something eise than repentance was necessary He did not rest satisfied with bewailing his guilt, or shedding tears over it, or asking divine pardon for it or warning the brethren against following his example, or promising that he would never again do wrong. The sheriff of McLean county took another way of showing the genuineness of his repentance and conversion. He restored to the treasury of the county the thousand dollars of which he had defrauled it in 1876.
